Recessional

Kay Redfield Jamison, Ph.D.

Kay Redfield Jamison is rich in experience and the wisdom that comes from exploring tough and troubling issues. A professor of psychiatry at the acclaimed Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, she is a prolific author and an international expert on mental health issues.

Dr. Jamison is the author of five books. Especially significant are Night Falls Fast: Understanding Suicide, which was selected by The New York Times as a "Notable Book of 1999." Her own experiences with manic-depression resulted in An Unquiet Mind, an unsparing memoir that was five months on The New York Times bestseller list. Hailed by critics as one of the best books of 1995, it is being developed by Universal Studios as a feature film. She is the co-author of the standard medical text on manic-depressive illness, a work that was chosen in 1990 as the "Most Outstanding Book in Biomedical Science" by the American Association of Publishers. In addition, she has written more than 100 scientific papers.

Dr. Jamison did her undergraduate and graduate studies at the University of California at Los Angeles, where she was a National Science Foundation Research Fellow and a UCLA Graduate Woman of the Year.

Formerly the director of the Affective

Disorders Clinic at UCLA, she is listed in Best Doctors in the United States. Chosen by Time magazine as a "Hero of Medicine," she was one of five individuals profiled for the public television series, "Great Minds of Medicine."

Among her many scientific interests are mood disorders, suicide, psychotherapy, and human genetics. She currently chairs the Genome Action Coalition, an alliance of more than 130 patient groups and pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies and was a member of the first National Advisory Council for Human Genome Research.

Dr. Jamison has had the courage to explore painful issues related to mental illness from the unique perspective of one who has been there. Her fierce intelligence, meticulous research and relentless honesty have earned her recognition and praise from such respected organizations as the American Suicide Foundation and the National Mental Health Association.

Sacred Heart University has the privilege this twenty-first day of May, 2000, to join their ranks in recognizing this dedicated scientist, gifted teacher, and passionate practitioner, by presenting the Doctor of Humane Letters degree, honoris causa to

Dr. Kay Redfield Jamison

Aram H. Tellalian, Jr.

The legal and public service careers of Aram H. Tellalian, Jr., have been defined both by their remarkable accomplishments and their unusual longevity. A graduate of Black Rock School and Central High School, both in Bridgeport, he chose to stay close to his roots. After graduating from Yale College in 1933 and Yale Law School in 1936, he began a career in law. His growing legal practice was interrupted by service to his country during World War II. Aram Tellalian was discharged as a major in 1946. At that time, he was attached to the Office of Strategic Service and served as a legal counsel at the Nuremberg War Trails.

Upon returning home, Judge Tellalian practiced law with his brother Robert, and he remains a partner of Tellalian & Tellalian, a Bridgeport law firm, to this day. He was elected the first Judge of Probate for the District of Trumbull and held that office until 1979. During his 20 years on the bench, he was widely known for his sensitivity to the people who came before him and his fairness to the attorneys who practiced in his court. So distinguished was his reputation, in fact, that he ran for reelection as a probate judge unopposed several times, and in 1990, the Connecticut Courts of Probate named him their Citizen of the Year.

Judge Tellalian has made a second career as a community leader. He is a devoted member of Bridgeport's United Congregational Church. He served as chairman of the Bridgeport Bar Association and was also active in the National College of Probate Judges. Governor Thomas Meskill of Connecticut appointed him to chair the Governor's Commission on the Age of Majority. His committee recommended sweeping changes in the law, all of which were adopted by the General Assembly in 1972.

Judge Tellalian has been especially active in Bridgeport and Trumbull, serving as an enthusiastic volunteer in many community efforts. He is a trustee emeritus of People's Bank and remains active in the Yale Alumni Association and the American Cancer Society in Eastern Fairfield County.

Sacred Heart University brings great honor to itself this twenty-first day of May, 2000, by recognizing a distinguished judge and generous humanitarian, a thoughtful practitioner of the law and a caring neighbor, as it presents the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, to the Honorable Aram H. Tellalian, Jr.

Ralph L. Corrigan, Ph.D.

Professor Ralph L. Corrigan has been an English professor at the University for more than three decades. An alumnus of Iona College in his native New Rochelle, he earned his master's degree and a Ph.D. from Fordham University. His published works have included several books and numerous articles in learned journals, as well as fiction and book reviews. His instructional book for children, Karate Made Easy, has sold thousands of copies.

Professor Corrigan is quick to point out the value of learning outside the classroom. He was the first on our campus to introduce service-learning into his curriculum, giving academic credit for course-related service in the community. Just recently, he was one of 10 finalists for the national Thomas Ehrlich Faculty Award, which recognizes exceptional service-learning practices. Dr. Corrigan was cited for his "deep commitment to engaged scholarship and civic renewal."

Dr. Corrigan's visits to the war-torn nation of El Salvador changed him deeply, and in unexpected ways. Traveling with students, faculty and staff from Sacred Heart University, he felt as though his heart had been broken. Instead of causing despair, the experience encouraged him to bring the hopefulness of the people of El Salvador back to the University. The message of his visits is clear, he believes: "Be with the people. Learn how to be quiet. Listen to them. Learn from them. Be a witness to their struggle. And try to be of some small service."

Dr. Corrigan shared his enthusiasm with others on campus, becoming a founder of Operation Bridgeport, a working retreat that introduces faculty and staff to the life of Bridgeport's inner city. He has been an energetic volunteer for Habitat for Humanity, and in 1996, he was awarded the state's Department of Higher Education Community Service Award.

For many, it is his balance of scholarship and commitment to bettering the larger world that makes Ralph Corrigan such a special and beloved educator and colleague. As Sacred Heart University bids farewell to its retiring mentor and friend, it pauses to reflect on his many contributions to the life of the mind, the heart and the spirit.

It is an honor on this twenty-first day of May, 2000, to present the prestigious Bishop Walter W. Curtis Medal Award to Virginia F. Zic, M.F.A.

Ordinarily, when relay runners reach the end of their course, they pass the baton with effortless ease. It may be slightly more difficult for Virginia Zic. As she retires, the baton she will pass on is the ornate wooden mace that symbolizes the teaching authority of this school. As the senior member of the University's faculty, she has been entitled to carry the mace in formal academic convocations since 1997. She is, in fact, the most senior instructor in the University's history – the first member of the faculty to celebrate 35 years on staff.

A Chicago native, Virginia Zic joined our faculty in 1963, only two years after its establishment. A friend had told her about this new school in Connecticut that was breaking fresh ground in Catholic higher education since it was to be staffed and administered by lay people. In 1977, she went on to break new ground of her own when she oversaw the creation of the University's Art Department and coached its fledgling few art majors. Today, thanks to her creative efforts, more than 90 women and men are pursuing bachelor's programs in art.

Professor Zic has been an artist all her life, demonstrating a talent for drawing and painting even in elementary school. Her undergraduate study at DePaul University in philosophy was complemented by courses at the Art Institute of Chicago. Her first graduate program was a dream come true for a young artist: she pursued her studies in Florence. The Villa Schifanoia was a Renaissance palazzo that admitted, at the time, just 30 students each year – all women. Her support for women artists has been lifelong: she remains active today in the Women's Caucus for Art.

Anticipating the need to provide students with more career-oriented skills, Professor Zic returned to graduate study, to earn an MFA at Syracuse University in advertising design. She has always been an active painter, so she looks forward to retirement to let her more creative side rise to the top. She does not paint "from reality," she says; instead, she tries to convey "a feeling about a place." After 35 years at this place, Virginia Zic leaves the University a much richer institution than the one she joined in 1965.

Her many friends at Sacred Heart University and countless alumni will miss this visionary Pioneer. But they take great pleasure this twenty-first day of May, 2000, in seeing their University bestow its esteemed Bishop Walter W. Curtis Medal on

Professor Virginia F. Zic

Academic Dress

Tradition holds that the cap and gown were first used in ancient Greece when only youths of wealthy parents or those with patrons attended school. The wise teachers of the time believed that fine clothing and jewels should not be worn by the scholar but rather, that the scholar should wear the garments of the worker.

In the United States, the gown commonly worn for both the associate's and bachelor's degrees has pointed sleeves (with a slit for the arm). It is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The gown for the doctoral degree has bell-shaped open sleeves. All gowns are black and without trimming with the exception of the doctoral gown, which normally is trimmed with velvet, has three bars or chevrons on the sleeves and may be in distinctive color(s) governed by the school granting that degree. The master's and doctoral gowns may be worn open.

Upon graduation, students of old carried a mortarboard showing them to be masons of the future destined to build empires or cities or fountains of wisdom on the firm foundation of knowledge. To this day, graduates wear mortarboard caps and gowns, symbolizing that they are builders of the future.

The history of the hood, with which degree recipients are invested, dates back to 13th century England. Whether its origin is ecclesiastical or secular has never been settled. Hoods are two and one-half feet long for the associate, three feet for the bachelor's, three and one-half feet for the master's and four feet for the doctor's degree. The hood is lined with the colors of the institution — red and white, in the case of Sacred Heart University. The color of the trim indicates the academic degree — white for arts, letters and humanities (B.A.), golden yellow for science (B.S.).

The hoods of those with graduate degrees, as well as the tassels on the mortarboards of the undergraduates, are often in the color associated with the academic field of specialization, as follows:

The Seal

The official seal of Sacred Heart University was introduced on July 22, 1963. It was designed by Frank Sullivan, an art teacher in New Jersey. Sullivan had been commissioned to design the seal by his friend, Dr. Maurice J. O'Sullivan, Sacred Heart University's first academic dean. The original pen and ink hangs in the diocesan museum at The Catholic Center in Bridgeport.

The original seal consists of a shield, a surrounding wreath of hearts and flowers, and the inscription "Universitas Sacri Cordis" in large letters on the outside of the seal and "Dioecesis Bridgeportensis, 1963" on the inner circle. This seal was updated in 2000 and is shown here.

The shield consists of a dexter — the right-hand side of a shield (the left as seen by the viewer) — and a sinister, the left-hand side of a shield. The dexter impalement bears the jurisdictional arms of the Diocese of Bridgeport. The bridge above waves of flowing water affords an apt expression of the name of the diocese that encompasses Fairfield County, Connecticut, where Sacred Heart University is located. The bridge represents service, which forges strong bonds of understanding and unity between diverse constituencies, while the vivifying water symbolizes the "port" by which new knowledge and ideas energize the scholars who commit themselves to the disciplines of academic inquiry. The Cross of Our Faith above the bridge dignifies the other symbols and identifies the University as a community that celebrates the richness of the Catholic intellectual tradition.

The sinister impalement displays the personal coat of arms of the Most Rev. Walter W. Curtis, S.T.D., the founder of Sacred Heart University and the second Bishop of the Diocese of Bridgeport.

The central checkered bar, taken from the Curtis family coat of arms, suggests the collaborative nature of the learning community in which each individual member contributes to the integrity of the whole. The two diamond-shaped lozenges, taken from the Costello family shield to honor the Bishop's mother, are placed in the upper portion to highlight the University's two most precious treasures: Love, the compassion of God as symbolized in the Sacred Heart of Jesus, and Truth, the goal of all scholarly activity. The University shield also honors Mary, the Seat of Wisdom, by including the crescent moon, which is the symbol of Our Lady under the title of the Immaculate Conception, chosen to signify the years that Bishop Curtis spent as a professor of moral theology at Immaculate Conception Seminary.

The Name

Sacred Heart University was founded in 1963 by the Most Rev. Walter W. Curtis, S.T.D., the second Bishop of the Diocese of Bridgeport, to provide an institution of higher education that would serve the needs of the people of the diocese and region, regardless of their sex, race, creed or religion.

In October 1962, Bishop Curtis announced both the plan to open a college the following September, and its name, "Sacred Heart." The choice of name had a dual origin: it was the name of the Bishop's first pastorate in Bloomfield, N.J., and was a pledge from the Bishop attesting to the value of such an institution.

The Mission

Sacred Heart University is a co-educational, independent, comprehensive institution of higher learning in the Catholic intellectual tradition whose primary objective is to prepare men and women to live in and make their contributions to the human community.

The University aims to assist in the development of people who are knowledgeable of self, rooted in faith, educated in mind, compassionate in heart, responsive to social and civic obligations, and able to respond to an ever-changing world. It does this by calling forth the intellectual potential of its students, nurturing each one's spiritual and moral growth, and deepening in them a sense of social responsibility. The University is committed to combining education for life with preparation for professional excellence.

Sacred Heart University is Catholic in tradition and spirit. As a Catholic university, it seeks to play its appropriate role in the modern world. It exemplifies in its life the Judeo-Christian values of the God-given freedom and dignity of every human person. Inspired by the ecumenical spirit of the Second Vatican Council, Sacred Heart University welcomes men and women of all religious traditions and beliefs who share its concerns for truth, scholarship, the dignity of the human person, freedom, and the betterment of human society. It values religious diversity as enhancing the University community and creating opportunities for dialogue in the common search for truth. Through its curricular and co-curricular activities and campus ministry programs, the University provides the context in which students have the opportunity to appropriate in a critical fashion their own religious traditions.

Sacred Heart University challenges its students to think critically, analyze carefully, evaluate with a sense of justice and proportion, and convey conclusions in an intelligible and articulate fashion. The University provides the environment in which its students can develop the aesthetic dimension of life by nurturing their abilities to imagine, create and appreciate. It assists students to acquire a rich understanding of their own cultural and family heritages so as to assume their responsibilities as conveyors and creators of culture and family.

As a community of teachers and scholars, Sacred Heart University exists for the pursuit of truth. It joins with other colleges and universities in the task of expanding human knowledge and deepening human understanding. It encourages and supports the scholarly and artistic work of its faculty and students. Further, it has a responsibility to share its resources and its special gifts and talents for the betterment of the human community. All members of the University community are strongly encouraged to participate in the wider community through service to others, especially the poor.

From its founding, the University has been recognized for its caring approach to students. This approach expresses the University's belief that each student is born with a unique set of qualities and skills. It respects the personal and academic freedom of each of its members while at the same time fostering a genuine experience of community. By so doing, it creates the environment in which each person in the University shares in common goals and a common commitment to truth, justice and concern for others.

The Mace

During the Middle Ages, the wood mace clad in metal was an effective weapon in battle, but as newer and more powerful military arms developed, it was transformed into a symbol of dignity and authority.

The earliest ceremonial maces were borne by bodyguards of 12th century English and French kings; by the end of the 16th century, they were used widely by officials of English cities and towns. Today, the use of the ceremonial mace is found in the British House of Parliament, carried before ecclesiastical dignitaries and in university and college commencements and convocations.

The Sacred Heart University Mace traditionally is carried by the senior tenured faculty member and represents the President's responsibility as the chief academic and administrative officer of the University. Commissioned by President Anthony J. Cernera, Ph.D., to mark the University's 25th commencement, the mace is made of rosewood, mahogany, walnut and bronze.
